2013 - 2013

Interim Chair and Associate Professor, University of Texas at Tyler, Department of Health and Kinesiology, Tyler, Texas

- Appointed to chair department after only one semester at the university.

- Provided strategic leadership for the department's research, teaching, and service mission. I oversaw the revising of curriculum and development of new courses.
- Collaborated with faculty to generate a policy to guide graduate research supervision and thesis; facilitated collegial relationships and collaboration among faculty and staff.
- Collectively with faculty, identified and rewarded outstanding students in different courses with an "above and beyond" award.
- Oversaw the department's budget; sought financial resources to meet program objectives.
- Oversaw the department's undergraduate and graduate teaching programs, evaluated and mentored faculty and staff, and actively represented the department at college, university, and other external committees.
- Actively recruited and inducted adjunct faculty.
- Actively encouraged faculty to participate in a grant-supported initiative to train faculty to design courses to be delivered using the online and hybrid methods. This enabled faculty to be ahead of the curve when Covid-19 hit in 2020 as all courses went online in spring 2020.

2012 - 2016

Associate Professor, Health and Kinesiology, University of Texas at Tyler, Tyler, Texas

- Designed and conducted course curricular in the department of Health and Kinesiology, engaging in research, scholarship, service, and being a collegial member.
- Designed and taught various courses including Theory of Coaching, Motor Development, Organization and Administration, Success in Teams Sports and Motor Learning for undergraduate students and Principles of Coaching as well as Motor Development in the master's program.
- In summer of 2014, I was awarded a grant by Carnegie African Diaspora Fellowship Program to visit Kyambogo University, Uganda to help develop graduate curriculum for sport science, mentor students and faculty and facilitated workshops to enhance research and scholarship in the department and institution. Helped supervise and mentor graduate students as they worked on their research for their thesis requirement. Served on various departmental, college and university committees.
- Attended various teaching and professional development courses to enhance my teaching skills.
- I earned an excellence in teaching award in 2015/2016 academic year.

2007 - 2012

Lead Professor and Associate Professor, Wiley College, Marshall, Texas

- In fall 2007, appointed to lead the Physical Education program at Wiley College.
- Charged with responsibility of coordinating the affairs of the program including the curriculum offered.
- Reviewed the curriculum; scheduled the course offerings and assigned faculty teaching duties; collaboratively produced new courses; facilitated collegial relationships and collaboration among faculty and staff.
- Oversaw the program's budget; sought financial resources to meet program objectives including purchasing of teaching and learning resources.
- Evaluated and mentored faculty and staff, as well as actively representing the unit at divisional and college committee levels.
- Wiley College is one of the oldest Historically Black Colleges and Universities west of the Mississippi. As the Lead Professor for the unit and program, I increased the enrollment to become the second biggest program, second to only Biology, in the whole college. One strategy which worked for my program was leading a first-year class where I taught with three other faculty members. As the lead instructor, I took on the role of student mentor and personal success coach and several students ended up not only enrolling in PE but also stayed on and graduated.
- Teaching at Wiley College introduced me to American Higher Education especially serving minority students. This entailed a quick lesson in knowing the challenges experienced by students and finding workable ways of connecting with them to keep their sights on completing their academic journey.
- I was also appointed to be Co-Chair of the SACS-COC reaffirmation Committee for the College.
- I was awarded exemplary teaching faculty of the year, 2010/2011.

1998 - 2007

Chair and Senior Lecturer, Department of Exercise, Recreation and Sport Science, Nairobi, Kenya

- In 2004, appointed to chair a new department, Exercise, Recreation and Sport Science, created after merging three different departments including Physical and Health Education, Exercise and Sport Science, and Leisure & Recreation Management.

- Presided over the implementation of curricular in the following areas:
    - Bachelor of Science (Sport Science)
    - Bachelor of Science (Leisure and Recreation Management)
    - Bachelor of Education (Health and Physical Education)
    - Post Graduate Diploma (Sports Administration)
    - Master of Education
    - Master of Science
    - Doctor of Philosophy
- I oversaw the operations of the student and staff health clubs where we offered various fitness programs, personalized health consultation, fitness evaluation, a senior staff bar, and aquatic activities for students, university community and neighborhood. This served as an income generation unit for the University.
- Provided strategic leadership for the department's research, teaching, and service mission especially the harmonization of personnel and curriculum out of the dissolved entities.
- Presided over reviewing and harmonizing the curriculum and programs; collaboratively produced new courses and programs; aggressively advanced the research profile of the department including graduate student research; recruited and mentored outstanding and diverse faculty; facilitated collegial relationships and collaboration among faculty and staff.
- Oversaw the department's budget; sought financial resources to meet program objectives, oversaw the department's undergraduate and graduate teaching programs, evaluated and mentored faculty and staff, as well as actively representing the department at college, university, and other external committees.
- Between 2001 and 2004, I was appointed and served as the Athletics Director at Kenyatta University while still teaching as a faculty member.
- Provided strategic leadership for the department's athletics programs, both intra and extramural, to maximize student participation and engagement.
- I was responsible for identifying and recruiting outstanding and diverse sports officers and coaches for the different programs and activities on the calendar.
- I dedicated myself to facilitating collegial relationships and collaboration among coaches, games tutors and other staff.

- I was also charged with the responsibility of overseeing the department's budget; sought financial resources to meet program objectives, oversaw the department's competition schedule both for intra and inter-Institutional student participation, and engagement with national and international sports associations.
- I was also called on to evaluate and mentor members of the department and actively represent it at college, university, and other external committees.
- During my reign, we also participated in international competitions outside the country as well as bidding and hosting related multi-disciplinary mega sports events including the East African University Games.

1996 - 1998

Senior Games Tutor, Egerton University, Nakuru, Kenya

- Provided leadership and coached various teams including soccer, netball, and track & field.
- Helped to develop a curriculum for sport science.
- Helped in organizing and hosting sports-related conferences, competitions, and workshops.
- Planned athletic schedules, budgeted, and managed various team programs and events.

1991 - 1996

Lecturer, Kenyatta University, Nairobi, Kenya

- Designed and conducted course curricular in the department of Physical Education and Games and coached soccer for the university team.
- Served on various departmental and university committees.
- Helped found the Kenya Association of Health, Physical Education, Recreation, Sport and Dance as a professional association and hosted inaugural national conference.
- Attended various certification courses in different sports disciplines to enhance teaching and coaching skills.

1985 - 1991

Lecturer, Teachers' Service Commission, Nairobi, Kenya

- Taught Physical Education to pre-service teacher trainees.
- Additionally, I was charged with the responsibility of coordinating athletics or sports programs in the various colleges where I taught including Moi Science Teachers College (1986- 1990) and Mosoriot Teachers College (1990- 1991).
- Apart from coordinating, I also coached soccer, track and field and netball teams.
- Served on various departmental and institutional committees.
- Helped in organizing and hosting various intra and extramural athletics activities.
- I also budgeted for the sporting events for college teams and events.
