Course Description

A comprehensive survey of American history from early explorations through Reconstruction. Meets Texas state requirements for all graduates.

When seventeenth-century European settlers began showing up along the east coast of North America, they scarcely could have imagined what would come after them: the rapid colonization of an entire continent at the almost genocidal expense of its indigenous peoples; the forced immigration of hundreds of thousands of Africans; the arrival of millions of others seeking civil liberties and economic opportunities; and — eventually — the birth of a new nation that would change the world in extraordinary ways. Though the future of the United States was neither set in stone nor foreseen by those who lived here in earlier times, they nonetheless shaped its character and destiny. Even today, at the dawning of a new millennium, we live with the consequences — good and ill — of their beliefs and decisions.

This course will sweep through nearly three centuries of those beliefs and decisions, from before the founding of the first English colony to the close of a civil war that nearly tore a nation apart. Along the way, we will consider both the key events and the influential trends that would affect American lives, past and present.

Course Goals

The goals of the course are to expand your knowledge of the basic content of early American history, introduce you to the conflicting interpretations of these historical phenomena, and give you the tools to analyze historical artifacts for yourself. We will also develop your ability to process information and express yourself clearly, namely in the written word.

Texts and Materials

I do not believe that the cost of textbooks and course readings should impede a student from being able to fully engage in this course. Thus, I have endeavored to ensure that the cost of required materials is as low as possible.

We will utilize portions of several textbooks available as open educational resources (OERs). While you are welcome to purchase a physical copy of these texts, they are both available free and available online, and we will use only limited portions of each.

You are also required to read one monograph. You may choose from this list:
I will post information on each book and suggestions for which books to choose during the first few weeks of the semester. Other primary source readings will be assigned throughout the semester and are included in the course content.

Course Requirements: Grading and Evaluation

Students have the opportunity to earn 1000 points in this course. Grades are determined from a variety of assignments:

- Book Quiz: 1 @ 110 points (110 points total)
- Content Quizzes: 11 @ 40 points each (440 points total)
- Module Activities (Discussions, Analysis Exercises, etc.): 6 @ 75 points each (450 points)

Book Quiz

On the days indicated on the Semester Calendar, there will be a very straightforward quiz, consisting of both multiple choice questions and a short answer question, on the selected, assigned monograph.

Content Quizzes

Content quizzes will consist of a variety of questions on the material covered in each module. They typically contain ten objective questions and are timed. The penalty for taking more time than is allotted is five points per minute. Quiz dates are noted on the Semester Calendar. Thirteen quizzes will be given during the semester; the lowest two scores will be dropped.

Module Activities

Many modules will have a corresponding activity that is due at the end of the module by Friday at 11:59 p.m. CST. (Deadlines are clearly indicated on the Semester Calendar.) Such activities may include but are not limited to discussions and analysis exercises. Guidelines for each are outlined below. Activities will be graded on several criteria: thoroughness, thoughtfulness, and timeliness.

You cannot wait until the end of the semester to complete the module activities; you must complete them as the semester progresses. Module activities are due on the dates indicated on the Semester Calendar and will not be accepted late. (Think of failing to complete an activity as missing an entire week of class.) Additionally, your final grade will drop 5 percent for each activity you do not complete beyond three. (That is, if you do not complete six activities, not only will you receive a zero for all six activities, I will also drop your final grade 15% because you missed three activities beyond three.) I reserve the right to raise or lower a grade by as much as 5% in response to conspicuously high or low levels of participation in the module activities.
Note that the module activities are slightly more than the content quizzes in this course. Thus, they deserve your full attention and efforts.

Discussions

Discussions will take place at various intervals throughout the course and can be accessed either in the associated learning module or in the purple navigation bar above by selecting Course Tools, then Discussions. The Main Forum of the discussion board will be visible for all students throughout the semester.

In a discussion, you must post your own response to the prompt and, if required, respond to other students. "I agree" is not a response to another student that will merit points; this may be how you feel, but it doesn't require much depth of thought on your part. Responses must be substantive and reflect critical thought and engagement with the course material. Feel free to reply to other students' postings with oppositional points of view, but you must speak respectfully.

Please remember that the discussion board is an academic environment and should be treated as such; proper grammar, spelling, and syntax are expected. Though your postings should be of sufficient length to properly answer each question, your grade will be based not on the length of your postings (unless specifically noted) but on your active participation and the content of your messages. Note that while you may not fully understand each module's content, discussions can be a good way to help yourself and your fellow students to make sense of them. Thoughtful, appropriate questions about the content carry value and reflect critical thought.

Analysis Exercises

In an analysis exercise, I will give you several thought-provoking questions and possibly a primary source to examine. You will then answer questions and/or craft an essay that carefully answers the questions asked and/or describes the document(s) and analyzes its/their historical significance. Analysis essays should be well-written, contain no grammatical or syntactical mistakes, and contain a high level of thought and polish.

Final grades will break down as follows:

- A = 90-100% (900-1000 points)
- B = 80-89.9% (800-899.99 points)
- C = 70-79.9% (700-799.99 points)
- D = 60-69.9% (600-699.99 points)
- F = 59% and below (599.99 points or fewer points)

It is your responsibility to keep up with your grades and to calculate your current average for your own knowledge.

Extra Credit

Extra credit in this course will be awarded only for participation in the Course Challenge Project, which involves a series of challenges (not difficult, but thought-provoking). To earn points, students must complete and report on challenges by the deadlines indicated by the instructor.

Exam Make-Up Policy

I will not give a make-up exam without a university-approved, documented excuse. If you miss an exam, it is your responsibility to contact me within one day of the missed exam to initiate a discussion of if and when you will be allowed to take a make-up exam.

Attendance Policy

As this is an online course, physical attendance in a classroom is not required. The entirety of this course will be completed online. However, there are firm deadlines for the course outlined on the Semester Calendar. I strongly encourage you to log into the course at least every other day. Refer to the Course Design, Interaction, and Tech Support page for information on how much time you should expect to spend on this course each week.

Technology Requirement

As you have elected to enroll in an online course, it is your responsibility to acquire a consistent, stable, dependable computer and internet connection with which to complete the assignments for the course by the deadlines indicated on the Semester Calendar. It is not the responsibility of the instructor to provide additional time for assignments or exams or an alternative means of completing the course due to technological issues on your part. Just as it is your responsibility to acquire and maintain adequate transportation to attend a face-to-face course, it is your responsibility to secure the technological means to participate in and complete this course.

Safe Space

My office is a safe space, and I am friendly toward all groups of students, including those who identify as LGBTQ+ and MOGAI. I want you to know that you can feel safe from judgmental attitudes when interacting with me.

Basic Needs

Any student who faces challenges securing their food or housing and believes this may affect their performance in the course is urged to contact the Office of the Dean of Student Affairs for support, including the Food for Thought Food Pantry. Furthermore, please notify the professor if you are comfortable in doing so. This will enable her to provide any resources that she may possess.

Resources for Mental and Emotional Health

The rigors of higher education pose unique forms of stress—stress that can significantly compound life’s other challenges. If you are experiencing mental and emotional distress or if you just need to gain a new perspective on personal issues, please book an appointment at SFA’s Counseling Services. These services are FREE to any enrolled student. Please make use of this excellent resource. To book an appointment, contact them via any of these means:

Program Learning Outcomes

This is a general education core curriculum course and no specific program learning outcomes for this major are addressed in this course.
Student Learning Outcomes

HIS 133 includes instruction in the interaction among individuals, communities, states, the nation, and the world, considering how these interactions have contributed to the development of the United States and its global role.

In addition to learning the above, students in HIS 133 will demonstrate the more general ability to:

- Think critically, which includes the ability to analyze, evaluate, and synthesize information about this period of history.
- Communicate effectively by developing and expressing ideas through written and visual communication.
- Gain intercultural competence, a knowledge of civic responsibility, and an awareness of how humans in the past have engaged effectively in regional, national, and global communities.
- Understand the role that personal responsibility has played throughout history and gain the ability to connect choices, actions, and consequences to making ethical decisions.

General Education Core Curriculum

This course has been selected to be part of Stephen F. Austin State University’s core curriculum. The Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board has identified six objectives for all core courses: Critical Thinking Skills, Communication Skills, Empirical and Quantitative Skills, Teamwork, Personal Responsibility, and Social Responsibility. SFA is committed to the improvement of its general education core curriculum by regular assessment of student performance on these six objectives.

Assessment of these objectives at SFA will be based on student work from all core curriculum courses. This student work will be collected in D2L through LiveText, the assessment management system selected by SFA to collect student work for core assessment. LiveText accounts will be provided to all students enrolled in core courses through the university technology fee. You will be required to register your LiveText account, and you will be notified how to register your account through your SFA e-mail account. If you forward your SFA e-mail to another account and do not receive an e-mail concerning LiveText registration, please be sure to check your junk mail folder and your spam filter for these e-mails. If you have questions about LiveText call Ext. 1267 or e-mail SFALiveText@sfasu.edu.

The chart below indicates the core objectives addressed by this course, the assignment(s) that will be used to assess the objectives in this course and uploaded to LiveText this semester, and the date the assignment(s) should be uploaded to LiveText. Not every assignment will be collected for assessment every semester. Your instructor will notify you which assignment(s) must be submitted for assessment in LiveText this semester.

Source Analysis Assignment

To measure the success of student acquisition of these skills, one assignment during the semester will require critical analysis of an historical event in United States history from the period before 1877. Each student will be provided a selection of primary and/or secondary sources to interpret and evaluate, place in historical context, and utilize to construct an analytical essay. The essay will require that students think critically about the sources, examine how individual choices and decisions influenced the course of history, and consider the ways in which people engage with regional, national, or global communities.

In certain semesters, completion of this assignment is required by the university and is an important component in the successful completion of this course. Further instructions will be provided at the appropriate time.

University Policies

Academic Integrity

Academic integrity is a responsibility of all university faculty and students. Faculty members promote academic integrity in multiple ways, including instruction on the components of academic honesty, as well as abiding by university policy on penalties for cheating and plagiarism.

Definition of Academic Dishonesty

Academic dishonesty includes both cheating and plagiarism. Cheating includes but is not limited to (1) using or attempting to use unauthorized materials to aid in achieving a better grade on a component of a class; (2) the falsification or invention of any information, including citations, on an assigned exercise; and/or (3) helping or attempting to help another in an act of cheating or plagiarism. Plagiarism is presenting the words or ideas of another person as if they were your own. Examples of plagiarism are (1) submitting an assignment as if it were one's own work when, in fact, it is at least partly the work of another; (2) submitting a work that has been purchased or otherwise obtained from an Internet source or another source; and (3) incorporating the words or ideas of an author into one's paper without giving the author due credit.

Academic and professional careers have ended because of academic dishonesty, especially plagiarism. If you have any questions about what does or does not constitute plagiarism, please let me know. In doing so, we can avoid what could potentially be a very costly and serious error. I take plagiarism very seriously and will not tolerate it.

Please read the University's complete student academic dishonesty policy.
Withheld Grades (Semester Grades Policy, A-54)

Ordinarily, at the discretion of the instructor of record and with the approval of the academic chair/director, a grade of WH will be assigned only if the student cannot complete the course work because of unavoidable circumstances. Students must complete the work within one calendar year from the end of the semester in which they receive a WH, or the grade automatically becomes an F. If students register for the same course in future terms the WH will automatically become an F and will be counted as a repeated course for the purpose of computing the grade point average.

Students with Disabilities

To obtain disability related accommodations, alternate formats and/or auxiliary aids, students with disabilities must contact the Office of Disability Services (ODS), Human Services Building, and Room 325, 468-3004 / 468-1004 (TDD) as early as possible in the semester. Once verified, ODS will notify the course instructor and outline the accommodation and/or auxiliary aids to be provided. Failure to request services in a timely manner may delay your accommodations. For additional information, visit Disability Services.
