SED 370.501
Sociocultural and Historic Perspectives in American Education

Instructor: Dr. Kenneth R. Austin
Email: austinkr@sfasu.edu
Office: McKibben 404C
Office Hours: M-W 9:30-12:00
Office Phone: 936-468-4473, SED Office: 936-468-2908

Prerequisites: None

I. Course Description: This course focuses on a critical perspective of American education rooted in historical and sociocultural issues. This course addresses the integration of power, race, culture, and the struggle for identity as overarching themes in addressing the purposes of education, equity, equality, and the promise of democratic public education; and, prepares pre-service candidates to begin developing a culturally relevant professional identity in preparation for the richness and complexity of American education. For this semester, this course has a more direct focus on interdisciplinary special needs.

II. Intended Learning Outcomes/Goals/Objectives (Program/Student Learning Outcomes/ELL Standards):

SED Program Learning Outcomes:

The candidate will develop and adapt an understanding of content specific instruction based on the needs of diverse students in a global and digital society.

The candidate will demonstrate an understanding of critical pedagogical strategies and professional dispositions through analyses of contemporary issues in education.
The mission of the James I. Perkins College of Education is to prepare competent, successful, caring, and enthusiastic professionals from diverse backgrounds dedicated to responsible service, leadership, social justice and continued professional and intellectual development in an interconnected global society.

This course helps enable the pre-service candidate to:

- Understand the development, creation and adaption of instruction and assessment for all students.
- Understand the purpose of education and philosophical perspectives including professional, legal and ethical issues.
- Understand an effective management for a diverse learner-centered classroom.
- Understand the importance of implementing and modifying instruction based on the needs of diverse students and incorporating technology as appropriate.
- Understand some strategies and methods for reading and literacy in various contents.

SED 370 Student Learning Outcomes:

1. The candidate will analyze and present historical or critical issues in American education.
2. The candidates will critically analyze and evaluate current issues and research in American education.

Because this is the initial course in the Secondary Education Teacher Education Program, students will address and be better able to:

- Define and illustrate the importance of a learner-centered environment and learner-centered instruction.
- Demonstrate an awareness of the cultural, ethnic, and racial diversity of the students in the secondary classroom.
- Demonstrate an awareness of environmental factors that influence the learning process.
- Demonstrate an awareness of the resources and legal issues surrounding students with special needs.
- Identify various learning styles.
- Identify the basic elements of productive student-centered communication.

This course and the James I. Perkins College of Education places an emphasis on and is committed to the following values:

- Academic Excellence through critical, reflective, and creative thinking
- Life-long learning
- Collaboration and shared decision making
- Openness to new ideas, to culturally diverse people, and to innovation and change
- Integrity, responsibility, diligence, and ethical behavior
- Service that enriches the community
College and Career Readiness Cross-Disciplinary Standards

This course addresses cross-disciplinary standards as tools which help pre-service teachers understand and put into practice methods and concepts to further challenge, engage, and evaluate not only their own learning and the deeper meanings of effective pedagogy, but also to help in preparation for future quality classroom experiences. These standards include key cognitive skills such as reasoning and problem solving, including foundational skills such as reading, writing, data analysis, and conducting research.

Both the academic and business worlds emphasize the importance of being able to apply these skills across a wide variety of contexts and subject matter. They describe 21st century learning and work environments in cross-disciplinary skills are prerequisites to solving many of the most important problems students will encounter in college and the workplace. These problems require applying knowledge across disciplines and subject areas and the mastery of a foundational set of communication and critical analysis skills that span subject areas. Pre-service teachers not only must possess content knowledge, they also need to apply key cognitive skills to the academic tasks presented to them, most of which require much more than simple recall of facts.

These cross-disciplinary standards enable pre-service teachers to engage in deeper levels of thinking in preparation for the transition from an environment where a primary focus was placed on acquiring content knowledge to one of possessing complex cognitive skills necessary to achieve deeper understandings of the content while teaching others to do so, as well. The cross-disciplinary skills include (I) Key Cognitive Skills, which include intellectual curiosity, reasoning, problem solving, academic behaviors, work habits, and academic integrity; and, (II) Foundational skills, which include reading, writing, and research across the curriculum, use of data, and use of technology. Further information concerning the College and Career Readiness Cross-disciplinary Standards will be discussed during the course.

III. Course Assignments and Vital Information:

COURSE ASSIGNMENTS: This course will address culturally relevant pedagogy, constructivist teaching and instructional strategies, the further development of critical thinking skills, topics with historical and philosophical perspectives of social justice in America, past and present American cultures, and public school governance. In so doing, this course will augment the student’s ability to effectively express individual ideas creatively while examining and responding to required readings and important educational topics, which will be posted on the class D2L webpage. All course assignments will be completed in D2L. Assignments are listed in ‘Dropbox’. This course generally includes 10-12 graded assignments.

The final course grade for each student enrolled in this course will be determined not only by the timely completion of the assignments, but any on-line participation in the D2L ‘Discussion Board’, as well. Class discussions on various educational topics may occur throughout the semester and are essential for gaining a better understanding of the educational profession, pedagogy, and historical/philosophical perspectives of American education. Successful completion of assignments is required to not only pass the course, but to be accepted into the Teacher Education Program.
MAJOR COURSE TOPICS:

Assignments and on-line discussions may be selected from but not limited to the following topics:

- Plessey vs. Ferguson (1896) – Supreme Court decision
- Brown vs. Topeka Board of Education (1954) – Supreme Court decision
- The Scopes Trial (1925) – The State of Tennessee vs. John Scopes
- The Committee of Ten (1893) – National Education Association document
- B.F. Skinner – Operant Conditioning
- Robert Gagne – Conditions of Learning
- Jean Piaget – Cognitive/Developmental Theory
- Lev Vygotsky – Cultural/Historical/Psychological Development
- Albert Bandura – Social-Cognitive Development
- Theory of Academic Motivation; Seligman & Atkinson – Learned Helplessness; Perspectives in Motivation
- Report – College Learning for the New Global Century
- Article – Our Vanishing Work Ethic.
- Chapters from a book entitled The Courage to Teach.
- This American Life: Shouting Across the Divide, episode #322. Originally aired on This American Life, a weekly program from Chicago Public Radio, this one hour program is located at www.thisamericanlife.org.
- Paulo Friere, Pedagogy of the Oppressed.
- Pedro Noguera, Transforming High Schools.
- If possible, reflective essays on scenes from the following films: The Water is Wide; Freedom Writers; Mona Lisa Smile; The Emperor’s Club; Friday Night Lights; Dead Poet’s Society; Finding Forrester; and, others

Also, this course may address but is not limited to the following educative topics:

- Introduction to the teaching profession
- Learning theories – constructivism, critical thinking, higher order thinking
- Culturally relevant teaching
- Philosophy of education
- Psychology of learning
- Purposes of education
- Constructivist teaching models
- Obstacles to learning
- Diversity (race, ethnicity, culture, special populations, learning differences, etc).
- Applications of human growth and development
- Aspects of effective/non-effective communication, including uses of Electronic Media
Important Information regarding assignments:

REFLECTIVE ESSAYS/ASSIGNMENTS

It is vitally important for SED 370 students to note that several assignments from course readings and any on-line discussions will examine the student’s ability to interpret, analyze and evaluate ideas within the conceptual framework of critical thinking. The course assignments are designed to not only cover educational topics but many of the basic skills or competencies displayed by good critical thinkers, as well as promote the further development of those critical thinking skills explicitly and directly. Assigned essays will, in turn, require individual insight within the student’s field of study and to everyday living.

Written essays should be well articulated with an analysis of ideas and relevant information; well constructed and convincing arguments; fair evaluation of diverse points of view; and, distinguishing which that is verifiable from mere conjecture. That is, essays must reveal scholarly expressions reflective of appropriate university 300-level course writing skills and development, critical analysis of the topic and personal insight. Poorly written and grammatically incorrect essays will be graded accordingly, if at all.

EDUCATIONAL PHILOSOPHY STATEMENT

This assignment gives pre-service teachers an opportunity to express personal philosophical beliefs concerning how individuals learn and broad educational practices. More information regarding individual philosophy of education statements will be provided during the course.

All assignments are submitted through ‘Dropbox’ in D2L. All assignments and/or portions of all assignments, including due dates, are subject to and quite likely to change in some form.

To better prepare for the teaching profession, this course is purposely designed with a reasonable amount of ambiguity. Doing so helps prepare the pre-service candidate for the unpredictable climate of the secondary classroom and challenges the student’s ability to manage time, improve critical thinking skills, develop problem solving skills, and cultivate self-efficacy. In that light, additional coursework may be required without prior notice, which would include unscheduled additional reading assignments, research assignments, and/or any additional written assignments. Also, as with actual teacher contracts, students shall be subject to assignment changes as well as changes in class responsibilities and/or work. The final semester grade may be determined by the quality of and individual dedication to these unscheduled assignments or changes. This is not a content oriented course. That is, this course is an overview and introduction about genuine understandings of topics listed within the course description.

IV. Evaluation and Assessments:

Candidates in the secondary and all level education certification programs (undergraduate and PBIC) must earn a “C” or better in each pedagogy course before progressing to the next course/level. A candidate earning a grade less than “C” in a pedagogy course must repeat the course and earn a “C” or better before the course counts toward certification.

Grades

Because this course and the Teacher Education Program promotes and emphasizes time management skills, assignments submitted after due dates without prior arrangement, justifiable health issues, school sponsored activities, and/or not within submission guidelines or format will not be accepted. Grades for assignments will be posted at the discretion of the instructor. Each written assignment submitted will receive an alphanumeric grade. Final semester grades will be determined by averaging most or all individual assignment grades.

Superior grades are reflective of superior work, such as providing scholarly critical analyses and personal reflections of assignments.

V. Required texts:

This course will require multiple resources. Some class readings will be provided while others are to be downloaded by the student from electronic resources. For this semester, student purchase of a required text is not necessary.

VI. Tentative Course Outline & Topics

Weeks 1-4: Begin initial on-line assignments regarding any class readings and individual assignment instructions. Class assignments and possible on-line discussions on the following topics: Purposes of Education; Conditions for learning; Discussions of needed reforms in education; Addressing changes in American culture & identifying and examining American youth; Discussing how we think and learn; Being Professional; and, Being philosophical. Learner-Centered Curricula vs. Teacher-Centered Curricula. Understanding learning processes, planning effective, engaging instruction with appropriate assessment, Diversification and Learning experience. Legal and ethical requirements for educators. Overview of Teacher Education program. Practice PPR test. Critical Thinking Theory, Meta-cognition, and Constructivism. Understanding learning processes, planning effective, engaging instruction with appropriate assessment. Complete on-line assignments and any on-line discussions by July 10.
VII. Course Evaluations:

Near the conclusion of the semester, students in the College of Education evaluate courses taken within the COE. Evaluation data is used for a variety of important purposes including: (1) Course and program improvement; (2) Instruction evaluation purposes; and, (3) Learner evaluation, assessment, and responsiveness purposes. As you evaluate this course, please be thoughtful, thorough, and accurate. In the COE, the evaluation process has been simplified and is completed electronically through mySFA. Although the instructor will be able to view the names of students who complete the survey, all ratings and comments are confidential and anonymous, and will not be available to the instructor until after the final grades are posted.

VIII. Student Ethics and Other Policy Information:

Students with Disabilities

To obtain disability related accommodations, alternate formats and/or auxiliary aids, students with disabilities must contact the Office of Disability Services (ODS), Human Services Building, and Room 325, 468-3004/468-1004 (TDD) as early as possible in the semester. Once verified, ODS will notify the course instructor and outline the accommodation and/or auxiliary aids to be provided. Failure to request services in a timely manner may delay your accommodations. For additional information, go to http://www.sfasu.edu/disabilityservices/. Location: Human Services Building, room 325. Phone: (936) 468-3004.

Academic Integrity

Academic integrity is a responsibility of all university faculty and students. Faculty members promote academic integrity in multiple ways including instruction on the components of academic honesty, as well as abiding by university polity on penalties for cheating and plagiarism.

Definition of Academic Dishonesty

Academic dishonesty includes both cheating and plagiarism. Cheating and plagiarism includes but is not limited to (1) using or attempting to use unauthorized materials to aid in achieving a better grade on a component of a class; (2) the falsification or invention of any information, including citations, on an assigned exercise; and/or (3) helping or attempting to help another in an act of cheating or plagiarism. Plagiarism is presenting the words or ideas of another person as if they were your own. Some examples of plagiarism are (1) submitting an assignment as if it were one’s own work that has been purchased or otherwise obtained from an internet source or another source; and, (3) incorporating the words or ideas of an author into one’s paper without giving the original author(s) due credit, which may involve copying in whole or part a published source such as a book, journal, magazine, internet document, etc., or submitting another’s work, including current or related course assignments or essays. Any sources that you use in your work must be properly acknowledged. A plagiarized assignment will receive a zero grade. All parties involved in any instance of plagiarism will receive no credit for that work even if one was the original author. Plagiarism may result in failure of the course.

Please read the complete policy at http://www.sfasu.edu/policies/academic_integrity.asp

Withheld Grades Semester Grades Policy (A-54)

Ordinarily, at the discretion of the instructor of record and with the approval of the academic chair/director, a grade of WH will be assigned only if the student cannot complete the course work because of unavoidable circumstances. Students must complete the work within one calendar year from the end of the semester in which they receive a WH, or the grade automatically becomes an F. If students register for the same course in future terms the WH will automatically become an F and will be counted as a repeated course for the purpose of computing the grade point average.

Acceptable Student Behavior

Student’s classroom/electronic behavior should not interfere with the instructor’s ability to conduct the class or the ability of other students to learn from the instructional program (see the Student Conduct Code, policy D-34.1). Unacceptable or disruptive behavior will not be tolerated. Students who disrupt the learning environment may be subject to judicial, academic or other penalties. This prohibition applies to all instructional forums, including electronic, classroom, labs, discussion groups, field trips, etc. The instructor shall have full discretion over what behavior is appropriate/inappropriate in the electronic classroom. Students who perform poorly on class projects/exams/assignments may be referred to the Early Alert Program. This program provides students with recommendations for resources or other assistance that is available to help SFA students succeed.

Ancillary Information - To complete Certification/Licensing Requirements in Texas related to public education, you will be required to:

1. Undergo criminal background checks for field or clinical experiences on public school campuses; the public school campuses are responsible for the criminal background check; YOU are responsible for completing the information form requesting the criminal background check. If you have a history of criminal activity, you may not be allowed to complete field or clinical experiences on public school campuses. At that point, you may want to reconsider your major while at SFASU.

2. Provide one of the following primary ID documents: passport, drivers license, state or providence ID cards, a national ID card, or military ID card to take the TExES exams (additional information available at www.texes.ets.org/registrationBulletin/). YOU must provide legal documentation to be allowed to take these mandated examinations that are related... to certification/licensing requirements in Texas. If you do not have legal documentation, you may want to reconsider your major while at SFASU.

3. Successfully complete state mandated a fingerprint background check. If you have a history of criminal activity, you may want to reconsider your major while at SFASU.

Use the following format for your philosophy statement:

The Title of Your Educational Philosophy Should be in Bold 18-22 point font

Your Name (16 point font)

SED 370
Stephen F. Austin State University
Spring 2019 (14 point font)

Your philosophical statement. (12 point font)

References:

Any reference should be in an APA style format. A properly referenced document gives power to your words.