SFASU Course Catalog Description
Two-semester training and supervision for GTAs teaching first-year composition. Instruction and support in administering a freshman-writing course as established in the goals and guidelines for English 131 and 132. Pass/Fail. Required for GTAs concurrent with their teaching English 131 and 132 for the first time.

Credit-hour Justification
ENGL 5181 "Practicum Teaching 132" (1 credit) typically meets once every week for 50 minutes, and also meets for a 2-hour final group teaching reflection. Students are expected to arrive prepared to discuss the pre-assigned teaching topic. These discussions focus on professionalization, practical experience, and real-world application of pedagogical theory. The course is assessed through active discussion along with informal in-class writing responses.

Student Learning Outcomes
1. Understand and apply relevant composition studies research in the creation of course content and pedagogical practices for teaching ENG 131 and 132.
2. Develop practices for sustaining professional development in the teaching of writing.

Required Materials
• Writing materials (e.g. journal) for in-class writing.

Course Activities
• Discuss topics related to the classes we are currently teaching.
• Workshop writing prompts, classroom activities, handouts etc.
• Practice responding to and assessing student writing.
Schedule
Meetings will begin with a discussion of our teaching during the previous week followed by discussion and/or writing activities chosen by the class (e.g. workshopping an upcoming writing assignment).

Assessment:
Assessment in this class is based on Jane Danielewicz and Peter Elbow’s hybrid model of contract grading as described in their article, “A Unilateral Grading Contract to Improve Learning and Teaching.” A copy of the article is on Brightspace. We will read and discuss the article later in the semester.

You will earn an A grade by:

- Faithfully participating in class discussion and writing activities,
- Completing readings as assigned by the class.

You will earn a grade of B or lower by not completing these activities or accumulating more than two absences.

Attendance
Absences beyond two will negatively affect your grade.

Academic Integrity
Academic integrity is a responsibility of all university faculty and students. Faculty members promote academic integrity in multiple ways including instruction on the components of academic honesty, as well as abiding by university policy on penalties for cheating and plagiarism.

Definition of Academic Dishonesty
Academic dishonesty includes both cheating and plagiarism. Cheating includes but is not limited to (1) using or attempting to use unauthorized materials to aid in achieving a better grade on a component of a class; (2) the falsification or invention of any information, including citations, on an assigned exercise; and/or (3) helping or attempting to help another in an act of cheating or plagiarism. Plagiarism is presenting the words or ideas of another person as if they were your own. Examples of plagiarism are (1) submitting an assignment as if it were one's own work when, in fact, it is at least partly the work of another; (2) submitting a work that has been purchased or otherwise obtained from an Internet source or another source; and (3) incorporating the words or ideas of an author into one's paper without giving the author due credit.

Please read the complete policy at http://www.sfasu.edu/policies/academic_integrity.asp

Late Work
Any work proposed and agreed to by the class will be due as assigned.
Withheld Grades
At the discretion of the instructor of record and with the approval of the academic unit head, a grade of WH will be assigned only if the student cannot complete the course work because of unavoidable circumstances. Students must complete the work within one calendar year from the end of the semester in which they receive a WH, or the grade automatically becomes an F, except as allowed through policy [i.e., Active Military Service (6.14)]. If students register for the same course in future semesters, the WH will automatically become an F and will be counted as a repeated course for the purpose of computing the grade point average.
